REFORM OR DIE

Seven Women Theologians Speak

*Laure Blanchon, Isabelle de La Garanderie,
Véronique Margron, Anne-Marie Pelletier,
Lucetta Scaraffia, Anne Soupa and Marie-Jo Thiel*

In Reform or Die, seven women theologians avoid the double pitfall of destructive pessimism and blissful optimism and propose an approach which is based on biblical, theological, but also sociological and pastoral expertise. They address the most urgent subjects: the lessons of the abuse crisis, the place given to women, synodality, welcoming the poorest, and the challenges of inclusion in the contemporary world.

The original publisher, éditions salvator solicited seven female theologians who have biblical, theological, sociological, and pastoral expertise. They consist of scholars, journalists, and historians. They all contributed or published works in the theological field throughout their careers which received wide media coverage.
